

The Singing Strings is excited to announce their upcoming Concerto Competition for all Singing Strings registered students. This competition will provide an opportunity for up to three winners to perform a movement of a concerto, accompanied by the Senior Singing Strings Orchestra, at our final season concert in late May or early June 2019. We intend this competition to be an encouraging one for all students. There will be a panel of judges, not affiliated with the Singing Strings, who will listen to all the performances and choose a winner solely on the student's performance at the competition.

Who is eligible: All registered students in the Singing Strings program, on violin, viola, cello or double bass. Competitors must perform on the instrument that they play in the Singing Strings. One winner will be chosen from each level of Singing Strings; one each from Junior, Intermediate and Senior. Judges do reserve the right to not choose a winner from a particular level. Please note that a student who has won any of the categories in any of the previous two years (concerto competition in 2017 or 2018) is not eligible to win that category in this year's competition.

What repertoire: Students may enter with one movement (or an entire concerto depending on length) of any standard string piece which has parts already available for string orchestra. Joint applications for duet or trio concerti are also encouraged.

Application deadline: Wednesday, March 27, 2019

Competition date: Friday, April 26, 2019
